

Loss of national radio stations such as KLOVE would be not be in the interest of the general public. KLOVE provides news and encouragement to Christians throughout the United States. States with limited population-base, such as Alaska would be impacted significantly.